

Nomination Form: Sensitive Personal-Privacy after first entry

Air Force’s mission is to prepare air and space power in order to enable the joint force in peace and war. Generating strategic effects as part of a joint and integrated force is underpinned by our people, and developing an intelligent and skilled workforce is a key line of effort for Air Force. Central to this is the pivotal role that junior leaders play in guiding the workforce; not just leading their teams on tasks, but understanding the strategic circumstances, priorities and objectives that drive those tasks. Fundamentally, the Leader Enrichment Program is not delivered as a leadership course, although it will positively influence your leadership abilities. Instead, the program aims to provide an enriching experience that empowers junior leaders. Your responses to the following questions will demonstrate your ability to think critically and strategically, and clearly communicate your thoughts – both of which are key to completing the Leader Enrichment Program.
